AMERICAN HERDSMEN HAVE LONG HAD A WAY WITH WORDS.

All of the below are cows, bulls, heifers and steers, many of whom passed through Chicago at one point or another – either to be judged at its grand cattle shows, or on their way to the table. We've honoured these fine beasts and more in our two private dining rooms: our 22-seater BIG MIKE – grand champion shorthorn bull – and 16-seater LADY BIRD 3RD – a devon cow praised for her "shapely feminine outlines, well-filled quarters and deeply-fleshed thighs." (Just ask if you'd like to take a look.) WE THINK THIS CATTLE POETRY SHOULD LIVE ON. FORGET-ME-NOT.

That was the rallying cry of the artists who founded actors and the Sublime Society of Beefsteaks back eighteenth-century London.

Part members' club, part secret society, this group met weekly to consume vast quantities of beefsteak and booze. JUST PUNCH, PORT OR PORTER. No fancy French wines allowed. Before long, everyone wanted in. Even the Prince Regent (soonto-be King George IV) joined their ranks - after a spell on the waiting list just like anyone else.

THE POND, SKIP fast 1894 and forward to HE CHICAGC ST CLUB IT'S FIRST BROIL HEI D AT THE STANDARD CLUB ON MICHIGAN AVENUE.

Clubs like these evolved into Beefsteaks, go-to celebrations for 'mobs of all grades of social life'. They were also regularly used by politicians to grease influential palms. Literally:

'THE USE OF KNIVES AND FORKS. PLATES AND NAPKINS, AND ALL OTHER EVIDENCES OF CIVILIZATION AND SANITY' WERE

The menu was straightforward: 'Real beefsteaks, broiled over charcoal, grilled bones, mutton chops, bread and celery, all washed down with sherry and beer.' No potatoes:

-K

'Too filling. They take up room that rightfully belongs to meat and beer.'

Over time the civilizing influence of female members rescued the tradition from being a place where, 'the life of the party used to be the man who let out the most ecstatic grunts, drank the most beer, ate the most steak, and got the most grease on his ears'. Fortunately for everyone, by a 1935 account, 'women do not esteem a glutton, and

WHAT ANY 5-YEAR OLD Could teach US about

Ask any kid in Kindergarten about cows and they can tell you how they live – out in fields and on open plains, munching grass with their herd.

They're happy. The farmer's family knows their names.

It's a nice story, but in so many places the reality is very different, involving strange-sounding drugs, chemicals and anabolic implants, all intended to get cattle to supersize in record time.

At Hawksmoor we believe in what that kindergarten kid believes.

For over 15 years we've been working closely with farmers and,of course, tasting a lot of beef. The most important thing we've learnt? The real magic happens out in the fields.

The key to great tasting steak is happy cattle. Our beef comes from cattle that lead a stress-free life out on pasture as much as possible, receiving most of the nutrients they need from grass and forage, with the space they need to roam, frolic and play.

No antibiotics, hormones, ionophores or beta-agonists. Ever.

It comes from farms like Chad and Dina's in Lena, Illinois, who, along with their young family, care for their animals with love and affection, and who, like us, believe in farming methods that honor natural systems, increase biodiversity and regenerate the land.

Or put more simply, the kind of farms a kindergarten kid would draw.

Nineteenth century Chicago restaurateur HM Kinsley loved piling grilled oysters on to freshly grilled steaks.

In his 1894 cookbook he says to mound 24(!) buttery oysters onto a single beefsteak.

Swapping his butter for steak-loving bone marrow, we're offering three charcoal-grilled oysters, along with a jug of bone marrow gravy, to go with any of our steaks for $18.94. But just let us know if you'd like to do as he did and add more!

1. Scoop the oysters on to your steak 2. Pour gravy over 3. Devour

Fuelling families and friendships for two thousand years*

"The feeling of friendship is like that of being comfortably filled with roast beef; love, like being enlivened with champagne."

Samuel Johnson, 1772

As British as the Royal Family (but slightly less dysfunctional), Sunday Roast has been forging family bonds and fuelling friendships since the dawn of the nation. "The favourite dish at the King's table as well as the tradesman's" (1726), it's a warm hug of a meal that unites people of all stripes over roast beef, Yorkshire puddings and indecent amounts of gravy. Sunday Roast is a weekly institution that provides much more than mere calories. In fact, it's so woven into the fabric of British life that the French have long referred to the Brits as les Rosbifs. And the fearsome crack team of (former) soldiers who guard the Crown Jewels at the Tower of London? Beefeaters. Because their yeoman forefathers were renowned for their healthy consumption of roast beef, a huge ration of which constituted part of their pay.

Hawksmoor Sunday Roast is a veritable feast of all the good things. Originally roasted on a spit over an open fire (the words 'roast' and 'rotate' have shared roots), we start our dry-aged rump over charcoal for an authentic lick of smoke and char. Served with all the trimmings - Yorkshire puddings, beef-fat roast potatoes, seasonal vegetables and all-important gravy, enriched with Madeira and bone marrow.

*'The renown'd King Arthur* is looked upon as the first who ever sat down to a whole roasted Ox. He and his Knights sat about it at his Round Table, and consumed it to the very bones.' So said the magazine Tatler in 1710. Legend has it King Arthur united a fraught and fractured nation to fend off Saxon invaders. His secret weapon? Roast beef. The records don't show whether he and his Knights enjoyed it with Yorkshire Puddings, roast potatoes and bone-marrow gravy, but we suspect they probably did.
